APPENDIX G. SURVEY PRESENTATION

1. Instructions and Survey Layout

Subjects participating in the study via Amazon’s Mechanical Turk system were able to locate it through a keyword search or via Mechanical Turk’s online listing of available tasks. Upon finding the study, subjects were presented with an informational screen giving a brief overview of the study, and could choose to view the instructions without committing to taking it. The initial screen appeared as follows:

Upon clicking “View a HIT in this group,” participants were given the survey instructions and could choose to participate by clicking “Accept HIT.” Upon doing so, they were again presented with the instructions, and were told to read them carefully. Participants then began the study by clicking a “Launch” button in the lower half of the page.

All study participants, paid or volunteer, were presented with identical survey instructions. After the initial selection of the HIT, the survey taken by participants from Mechanical Turk was identical to that taken by volunteers.

The first screen of the survey contained instructions, and appeared as follows:

Evaluate the Seriousness of Criminal Offenses in Pennsylvania

This study seeks to find out your views on the relative seriousness of different criminal offenses in Pennsylvania. There are no right or wrong answers. We are interested in your honest and thoughtful judgments.

Please do this task carefully. It will help us to improve criminal justice systems across the country.

You will be given descriptions of 110 different criminal offenses that exist in the current Pennsylvania criminal code. Only the first 55 questions are required (you will be paid $.65 for completing them). However, we hope you will continue to complete more for us! After the mandatory questions, you will be given the opportunity to do sets of an additional 11 questions (with a bonus of $.12 for each set).

In the study, you will be asked to categorize each offense into one of nine categories of seriousness, with Level 1 being the least serious, deserving the least amount of punishment, and Level 9 being the most serious, deserving the most punishment. For each of the nine offense categories, you are given sample offenses that illustrate the level of seriousness of offenses in that category. These sample offenses are referred to as "milestone offenses" because they mark out for you nine different points on the continuum of offense seriousness and deserved punishment. (Each milestone offense is a real offense in the current Pennsylvania criminal code.)

For each offense to be categorized, your task is to find the category among the "milestone offenses" that most closely matches the level of seriousness of the offense being categorized. For example, if the offense you are given is in your view most like the milestone offenses in Level 6, then you will mark the offense as a 6 and go on to the next question.

Additionally, we will ask a few demographic questions along the way so that we may better understand the results of the survey. Your information will be aggregated into a pool with all other subjects, and will not be personally identifiable. General demographic data will only be used for academic purposes.

In order to begin the study, please click the button below. A new window will open, in which you will take the survey. Please do not close the current window! When you are finished with the study, it will give you a password that you must enter below in order to be paid through Mechanical Turk. You will need to scroll down this page to do so. Again, please do not close the popup survey window before it gives you a password.

Begin the Survey

Please do not move to this part of the HIT until you have completed the survey!

Thank you for completing our survey. You have been given a password that will enable you to be paid through Mechanical Turk. Please enter it below, and click the button. After doing this, we will receive your results and will approve payment as soon as possible. Again, we appreciate your time, and thank you for participating!

Submit to Mechanical Turk

After beginning the survey, participants were given a verification question designed to ensure that they had realized that non-Pennsylvanians could not participate. Each was asked to type the two-letter abbreviation of their state in a text box. Participants giving answers other than "PA" were presented with a screen instructing them to close the survey, and thanking them for their time. The PA verification question appeared as follows:

This study is for Pennsylvania residents only!

This study is open only to residents of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the United States. It is very important to our data collection effort that we sample Pennsylvanians only. The website is able to tell if you are not taking the survey in Pennsylvania, and will not be able to pay persons outside of the State.

If you are not from Pennsylvania, please close this window and then click "Return HIT" in Mechanical Turk. We thank you for your time. If you are from Pennsylvania, please confirm that by typing "PA" in the box below, in capital letters.

Thank you.

Of what state are you a resident?

Participants were next presented with an introduction to the "milestone offenses" used throughout the survey. Text instructions were followed by a sample milestone chart, accompanied by a sample "test offense." The arrangement was exactly as would be found later in the survey. Each participant was asked to answer “Level 4” for this question; any survey that did not show a Level 4 answer to this question was closely scrutinized and could be subject to removal from the study if further factors indicating invalid data were found. The milestone offenses sample page appeared as follows:

Milestone Offenses

Please study the "Milestone Offenses" list below carefully. You will be given a series of offenses and asked to determine, for each, which "level" the given test offense is most like.

We are not asking what length of sentence you think should be imposed for each offense. We are asking you only to identify the Milestone Offenses that are most like the level of seriousness of each of the offenses you will be shown.

Below is an illustration of what each question will look like. On the left is the Milestone Offenses list; it will remain the same throughout the survey. On the right is the test offense; this will change for each question. Please familiarize yourself with this setup, and then answer the question below.

Milestone Offenses		Test Offense
Level 9	Murder of the First Degree: Intentionally killing another person.	A description of the test offense will be shown here.
Level 8	Murder of the Third Degree: Reckless killing with extreme indifference to the value of human life (an example would be causing a death by shooting a firearm into a crowd of people, disregarding the risk that it may kill someone).
Level 7	Aggravated Assault: Knowingly causing injury that risks death or leads to permanent impairment. Rape: Engaging in sexual intercourse by force.
Level 6	Burglary: Entering a house without permission in order to commit a crime. Robbery with Injury: Inflicting bodily injury on a person while committing a theft. Sexual Assault: Engaging in sexual intercourse without consent, but not by force.
Level 5	Shooting into a House (Reckless Endangerment): Discharging a firearm into an occupied structure, without causing any injuries. Robbery: Taking property from another by force, without causing injury. Theft of more than $2,000: Taking property of another valued over $2,000.
Level 4	Stalking: Repeatedly following another, intending to cause substantial emotional distress. Theft of $2,000: Taking property of another valued between $200 and $2,000.
Level 3	Simple Assault: Recklessly causing bodily injury to another. Theft of $200: Taking property of another valued between $50 and $200. Criminal Mischief: Intentionally causing property damage of more than $1,000.
Level 2	Theft of less than $50: Taking property of another valued under $50.
Level 1	Harassment: Repeatedly committing acts that serve no legitimate purpose, intending to annoy another person. Disorderly Conduct: Creating an annoyance by noise or threatening behavior.

Answering the Questions

Suppose that the test offense above was "Reckless Driving," and that you judged this offense to be as serious as the Milestone Offenses listed in Level 4. In that case, you would select "Level 4" below, and then click "Next" to proceed with the survey.

Please select Level 4 to continue.

were required to answer and could not progress to the next question without choosing a response. Each test question appeared as follows:

Milestone Offenses									Test Offense
Level 9	Murder of the First Degree: Intentionally killing another person.								Three people causing an annoyance in public, and failing to disperse when told to by a police officer.
Level 8	Murder of the Third Degree: Reckless killing with extreme indifference to the value of human life (an example would be causing a death by shooting a firearm into a crowd of people, disregarding the risk that it may kill someone).

After the subject had completed the first 55 test questions, he or she was presented with a screen thanking them for completing the required portion of the survey. This screen was designed to increase participation in the questions that followed, but granted a password to input into Mechanical Turk. These passwords were intended to force the user to press “Submit HIT” in Mechanical Turk after they had finished the survey; we could not pay them if they did not (this is a technical limitation inherent to the Mechanical Turk system). Providing passwords also enabled us to quickly view where the user had stopped taking the survey, without consulting the actual data, and finally provided the user with definite endpoints while providing encouragement to complete as many questions as possible. The midpoint notice appeared as follows:

Thank you for completing the required portion of our survey. Your responses will be invaluable in helping to improve the criminal law in Pennsylvania and in other states. So far, you have earned 65 cents.

We hope that you've found the survey to be interesting! We would be greatly appreciative if you would consider helping us by answering more questions like the ones that you just completed. There are 55 more questions available, which you will be given in sets of 11.

If you would like to work on more, please click "Next." For each set of 11 that you complete, we will pay a bonus of 12 cents (if you complete the entire survey, we will pay you a total of $1.25).

If you do not want to continue, you will need to either remember or copy and paste the password below. When you do, you may close this window and enter the password in Mechanical Turk by scrolling down past the dotted line. You will then be paid for your participation.

Again, we thank you for your help and hope that you will consider answering the rest of our survey. Please press "Next" to continue.

After each set of 11 questions presented beyond the midpoint, participants were presented with a checkpoint question allowing them to stop the survey. Each checkpoint granted a different password, so that we could easily track how far a subject had gotten in the survey. The checkpoints appeared as follows (though each of the four granted a different password):

Thanks for continuing to answer survey questions! The more responses we get, the more accurate our data will be in reflecting the preferences of Pennsylvania citizens.

Again, we thank you for your help and hope that you will consider answering the rest of our questions. If you want to keep going, please press "Next" below.

If you do not want to continue, you will need to either remember or copy and paste the password below. When you do, you may close this window and enter the password in Mechanical Turk by scrolling down past the dotted line. You will then be paid for your participation.
